'EPIC FURY' HITS IRAN

IRAN-ISRAEL-US CONFLICT ESCALATES BEYOND BORDERS

51 students killed in missile strike on school in Iran's Minab

WASHINGTON

The United States on Saturday launched a massive military strike dubbed 'Operation Epic Fury', targeting key Iranian military targets just days after President Donald Trump gave Tehran 10 days to finalise the nuclear deal and warned that "bad things" would happen if it failed to comply with Washington's demands.

Hours after the US launched a "major combat' operation against Iranian military installations, US defense officials announced the name of the operation in a social media post that included an American flag emoji.

Iran refused to renounce nuclear weapons: Trump

Trump said that the military operation, which commenced on Friday (local time), comes after Iran has refused to renounce its nuclear weapons, which Tehran has consistently said that it is not pursuing. He also added that Washington will destroy the Islamic Republic's missile inventory and industry, as well as its navy.

Attack on shool

The spiralling US-Iran-Israel confrontation entered a darker phase after the death toll from an Israeli strike on a girls' primary school in Minab of Southern Iran has touched 51, as per government sources.

The tragedy unfolded amid widening hostilities following US strikes on Iran and coordinated Israeli operations across the country.

The strike on the school in Hormozgan province marks one of the deadliest single incidents involving civilians since the latest escalation in the war with Iran began.

According to Iranian state media, the school in Minab was struck during a wave of air raids carried out as Israel attacks Iran in coordination with Washington.

Explosions across Tehran

Explosions were reported across Tehran, hitting roughly 30 targets in the first wave, including leadership residences, intelligence centers, and reportedly even the Supreme Leader's office. The initial focus appears to be on Iran's leadership and security infrastructure, rather than solely military assets, although US officials claim military targets were hit. Washington's involvement marks a major shift.

- Burj Khalifa reportedly evacuated
- Iran-Pakistan border shut
- World's busiest airport in Dubai closed

The US is reportedly coordinating closely with Israel from the start, indicating a broader, more strategic campaign. Donald Trump's recent address urged Americans to support the Iranian people and warned the regime that continued oppression comes at a deadly cost, signaling regime change as a possible objective.

STRIKE ON GIRLS' SCHOOL WILL 'NOT GO UNANSWERED': IRAN MIN

Iran Foreign Minister Seyed Abbas Araghchi has said that the attack on a girls' elementary school in Minab, a city in Hormozgan province in southern Iran, will "not go unanswered." Trump calls on Iranians to overthrow regime

WASHINGTON

In a video address after the United States and Israel started bombing Iran, US President Donald Trump made clear the goal was destruction of the Islamic republic's military and toppling of the authorities in power since the 1979 revolution.

"We are going to destroy their missiles and raze their missile industry to the ground. It will be totally -- again -- obliterated. We're going to annihilate their navy," Trump said in the address from his Florida home posted to his Truth Social platform. He urged opponents of the Iranian authorities to rise up, saying "the hour of your freedom is at hand."

"When we are finished, take over your government. It will be yours to take," Trump said, adding that this "will be probably your only chance for generations."

He also acknowledged that "the lives of courageous American heroes may be lost" in what the Pentagon dubbed "Operation Epic Fury."

"This murderous terrorist regime must not be allowed to arm itself with nuclear weapons that would enable it to threaten all of humanity," he said. "Together we will stand, together we will fight, and together we will ensure the eternity of Israel," he added. Netanyahu also urged Israeli citizens to follow civil defence instructions in the days ahead, saying the operation would require patience and resilience.Targets hit across Iran

India's DGCA sounds heigh alert

NEW DELHI: India's aviation regulator has issued a deep alert to airlines and airports amid escalating tensions in the Middle East, triggering precautionary measures across the country's civil aviation network. The Directorate General of Civil Aviation has asked carriers to closely monitor the rapidly evolving security situation in the region and strictly adhere to international airspace advisories, as several West Asian countries impose restrictions or temporary closures of their skies following military developments. The advisory comes at a time when parts of the Middle East, a crucial transit corridor linking India to Europe, North America and Africa, are witnessing significant airspace curbs. These restrictions have forced airlines globally to reassess flight paths, leading to rerouting, longer flying times and possible delays. Indian carriers operating to destinations in the Gulf and beyond have been directed to continuously evaluate flight safety.

Sovereignty and territorial integrity of all states must be respected."

Oil markets brace for volatility

Global energy markets are set to see significant volatility following a US-Israel coordinated wave of military strikes across Iran. Oil prices have been creeping up for weeks as geopolitical tensions intensified, but the latest military action has send them even more higher. The attacks have brought the Strait of Hormuz into the conflict zone, creating concerns about potential disruptions to oil exports from the Middle East. Over 20% of the world's crude passes through this waterway.

I saw nothing and did nothing wrong: Clinton

WASHINGTON

Former United States president Bill Clinton on Friday denied any wrongdoing while testifying to a congressional panel probing his links to convicted sex offender Jeffrey Epstein.

Clinton, who features prominently in the Epstein files has insisted that he broke ties well before the disgraced billionaire's 2008 conviction for sex offences.

Clinton shared a video message on his deposition on X and said, "I saw nothing, and I did nothing wrong."

"The reason I was there is that the girls and women whose lives Jeffrey Epstein destroyed deserve not just justice, but healing. They've been waiting too long for both. Though my brief acquaintance with Epstein ended years before his crimes came to light. And though I never witnessed during our limited interactions any indication of what was truly going on," Clinton said on agreeing to testify before the probe panel. As per agencies, James Comer, the Republican chair of the House committee probing Epstein, termed the deposition "very productive". "President Clinton answered every question, or attempted to answer every question," he said. Clinton flew on Epstein's plane several times in the early 2000s after he left office and before Epstein's 2008 conviction of soliciting prostitution from a minor. A tranche of millions of documents released by the Justice Department includes photos of Clinton with women whose faces are redacted.

"I saw nothing, and I did nothing wrong," Clinton said. His testimony follows that of his wife, former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, who told the panel on Thursday that she did not remember ever meeting Epstein and had nothing to share about his sex crimes.

Speaking after visiting the regional Congress office and receiving representations from party leaders and workers, the Minister said that under the KUSUM-C component, substations supplying power to agriculture are being solarised with a target of generating 2,500 MW of solar power.

Through feeder solarisation, we are ensuring seven hours of quality daytime supply to farmers. Under KUSUM-B, we are providing solar pump sets with up to 80 percent subsidy—the highest in the country. This is a transformative step by the Energy Department for the farm sector, he said.

Teachers can transform ordinary into extraordinary: CM

Siddaramaiah calls for scientific, rational education at teachers' mega conference in Bengaluru.

BENGALURU

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Saturday said that only teachers have the power to transform ordinary individuals into extraordinary citizens and emphasized that the responsibility of building a better society must be reflected in the ongoing educational discourse.

He was speaking after inaugurating the State-Level Educational Mega Conference and Golden Jubilee Celebration organized by the Karnataka State Primary School Teachers' Association at Tripura Vasini, Palace Grounds in Bengaluru. Addressing a large gathering of educators from across the State, the Chief Minister described teachers as the true architects of the nation's future and underscored their pivotal role in shaping society.

Recalling India's journey since independence, he noted that the literacy rate, which stood at around 12 to 15 percent at the time of Independence, has now risen to approximately 74 percent. However, he stressed the need to examine whether the education system is delivering quality education that effectively addresses societal challenges. He clarified that any shortcomings in educational transformation cannot be attributed to teachers alone, but rather to the deeply entrenched caste system and social inequalities that continue to affect progress. Highlighting the importance of scientific and rational education, Siddaramaiah said that the Constitution mandates the promotion of scientific temper and responsible citizenship.

As society continues to grapple with caste divisions, superstition, and regressive practices, he said education must play a transformative role in eliminating such barriers. The Chief Minister emphasized that meaningful change is possible only when inequality is eradicated and every section of society is brought into the mainstream. Economic and social freedom, he said, must be accessible to all citizens. Teachers, he added, are uniquely positioned to instill rational thinking and scientific outlook among students. Quoting Mahatma Gandhi, he said true development occurs when intellect, compassion, and skill come together. Expressing deep respect for primary and secondary school teachers, Siddaramaiah acknowledged that his own achievements were shaped by their guidance.

He urged teachers to uphold their constitutional duties, encouraging them to question, reason, and teach students to adopt the same approach.

Concluding his address, the Chief Minister assured that efforts would be made to fulfill the demands raised by the teachers' association.

There is no greater joy for a teacher than seeing students rise to great heights in society, he said, emphasizing that the foundation laid in primary school remains with a child for life.

He stressed that teachers must prepare children to dream big and cultivate discipline, as discipline is essential for achieving great aspirations.

Quoting B. R. Ambedkar, he said that those who forget history cannot create history. He called upon teachers to inspire students to understand their past while equipping them with the knowledge and values required to shape the future. You must create children who will script history, he remarked.

Reflecting on the moral and cultural significance of teachers, Shivakumar said, The memory of a mother is the source of love, the memory of God is the source of devotion, and the memory of a guru is the source of knowledge. These three together form the foundation of humanity. He congratulated all those who had chosen teaching as their profession, describing it as a noble path of service.

Bommai predicts K'taka Congress wrestling finale

Bommai warned the public may act against the government, criticizing leaders' travel and highlighting the party's governance failures

HAVERI

Former Chief Minister and MP Basavaraj Bommai has predicted that the ongoing political struggle in Karnataka will reach its final stage after the state budget. Speaking to the media in Haveri, he said the situation in the Congress government has become critical, and there is little room for negotiation.

"The people have completely lost trust in this government," Bommai said. "Citi-zens are eagerly waiting for a change. Even MLAs are feeling the pressure, worry-ing that the uncertain atmosphere may affect their chances in future elections. Some are traveling abroad, while others are staying in resorts. The Congress high command seems powerless to manage the situation."

Bommai indicated that, in the coming days, the public will take action to remove the government, regardless of whether leaders go to Delhi or abroad. He suggest-ed that this political turmoil reflects poorly on the party's ability to govern effec-tively.

He also commented on the recent tragic incident in Shivamogga, where a minor boy was murdered. Bommai expressed deep concern and pointed out the possible influence of early drug use, noting that ganja consumption among schoolchildren has become a serious issue in Karnataka. "If children are exposed to drugs and communal tensions at such a young age, how can society progress?" he asked.

Bommai accused the Congress government of failing not only in maintaining law and order but also in preserving social harmony. "Sitting in power merely to fight for positions will not help society move forward. The state requires a government that can protect citizens and maintain peace," he added.

As the budget approaches, political observers are closely watching developments, anticipating how the unfolding crisis within the state Congress could shape Karna-taka's future governance.

Cong finalises 45 candidates for Assam polls

GUWAHATI

The Congress has finalised 45 candidates for the upcoming Assam Assembly elections, keeping most sitting MLAs. The formal announcement may wait until the BJP releases its list. The decision came after a CEC virtual meeting reviewing state feedback and screening reports. Discussions included new Binnakandi and Khowang seats and possible ally allocations. Some protests occurred over seat-sharing in Sarupathar and Bhawanipur-Sorbhog. The 126-seat elections are expected in April.

JNUSU demands release of arrested students

NEW DELHI

The JNUSU demanded the release of 14 students arrested during the recent "Long March" to the Ministry of Education. Despite being granted bail, procedural delays have kept them in Tihar Jail, said general secretary Sunil Yadav. He alleged police action and campus barricades caused injuries and aimed to suppress dissent. Three office bearers are among those detained, and verification of permanent addresses is delaying their release, the union added.

Invest, innovate to realise Viksit Bharat dream: PM

'The collaboration between government, industry, and knowledge partners turns policy announcements into real outcomes'

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi called on industry and financial institutions to boost investment and innovation to achieve Viksit Bharat.

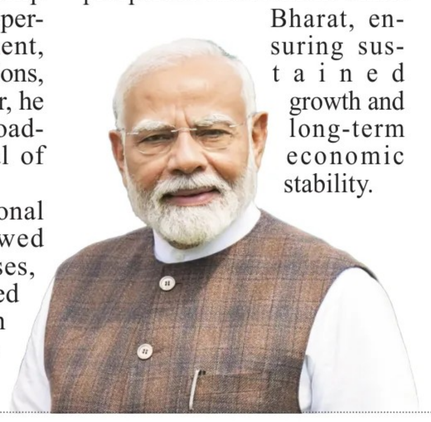
Addressing a post-Budget webinar on 'Technology, Reforms and Finance for Viksit Bharat', Modi emphasized that collaboration between government, industry, and knowledge partners turns policy announcements into real outcomes.

Highlighting infrastructure growth, he noted public capital expenditure rose from ₹2 lakh crore eleven years ago to over ₹12 lakh crore in the 2026-27 Union Budget, sending a strong signal for private sector investment.

The Prime Minister urged India Inc to make full use of Budget announcements with fresh investments and innovative initiatives. Financial institutions, he added, should design practical solutions to enhance credit flow and strengthen investor confidence. He stressed that India's progress over the past decade stems from conviction-driven reforms, not chance, and that government efforts to simplify processes have improved the ease of doing business.

Modi proposed the creation of a 'Reform Partnership Charter' to formalize cooperation between government, industry, financial institutions, and academia. This charter, he said, would serve as a roadmap to achieve the goal of Viksit Bharat by 2047.

Pointing out that national budgets are often viewed through short-term lenses, Modi emphasized the need to evaluate the Union Budget based on long-term policy impact and structural changes. He reiterated that reforms, when implemented collaboratively, can translate policy into tangible achievements, and that investment, innovation, and practical solutions from all stakeholders are critical for India's journey toward a developed nation. Through strategic partnerships, robust investment, and targeted reforms, Modi conveyed that India can realize its vision of a prosperous and resilient Viksit Bharat, ensuring sustained growth and long-term economic stability.



Be architects of 'Viksit Bharat': VP

At Delhi University's 102nd convocation, Vice President C P Radhakrishnan urged over 1.2 lakh graduates to become architects of a 'Viksit Bharat' by 2047, emphasizing research, innovation, and entrepreneurship rooted in Indian realities yet globally competitive. Highlighting women's achievements, he noted over 70% of gold medallists were women. He also encouraged lifelong learning, staying away from drugs, and making India proud while aspiring to place DU among the top global universities.

Kejriwal should fight like Rahul: Kharge

NEW DELHI

Kharge said Kejriwal should follow Rahul Gandhi's example in tackling injustice, warned against Modi's policies, and accused Punjab's AAP government of being BJP's "B team."

Congress President Mallikarjun Kharge criticized Arvind Kejriwal's emotional display outside court, urging him to fight injustice like Rahul Gandhi, not with tears.

At Congress' Kisan Mahachaupal in Barnala, Kharge referred to Kejriwal's breakdown after being discharged in the Delhi Excise Policy case.

He said crying or wailing "won't get the job done" and stressed that a virtuous person doesn't need to claim honesty—the people recognize it. Kharge compared Kejriwal's behavior to how Prime Minister Narendra Modi used to speak, calling both "fraud" and hypocritical, and warned that following them would harm the country.

Kharge also attacked Punjab's AAP government, labeling it the BJP's "B team." He highlighted rising crime in the state, noting bullets fired, murders, and assaults on women while the government remained silent. He emphasized that Punjab, known for social justice and harmony, is being neglected and failing to protect its citizens.

Targeting PM Modi, Kharge criticized the US-India interim trade deal, calling it a "surrender" and accusing Modi of selling the country. He noted that India agreed to reduce tariffs on US industrial and agricultural products, including dried distillers' grains, red sorghum, soybean oil, tree nuts, and wine. Kharge warned that the Punjab government is following BJP policies and ignoring the struggles of farmers, laborers, and youth, further undermining unity in the state.

Kharge concluded that fighting injustice requires action, not emotional displays, urging leaders to emulate Gandhi's persistent approach and focus on the welfare and unity of the nation.

The US-Israel Operation Roaring Lion struck Iran, prompting missiles and airspace closures; Congress urged citizen safety

Cong condemns US-Israel strikes against Iran

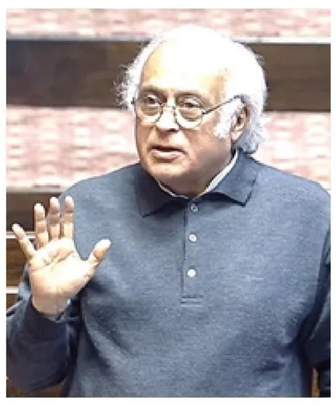
NEW DELHI

Congress condemned the recent US-Israel military strikes on Iran and urged the Indian government to ensure the safety of Indians in West Asia.

Congress MP and General Secretary Jairam Ramesh criticized US President Donald Trump, calling nuclear negotiations with Iran a "charade." He said the strikes were provoked by Israel, aiming for regime change.

Ramesh urged the Centre to take urgent steps to end hostilities and protect millions of Indians living and working in the Middle East.

Earlier, Congress Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi emphasized the escalating conflict between US-Israel and Iran and called on the Indian government to act immediately to safeguard citizens.



He stressed that their safety must be the top priority amid rising tensions.

The joint military operation, codenamed Operation Roaring Lion, targeted Iranian military sites, missile facilities, and areas near Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei's office.

In response, Iran launched missile strikes against a US base in Bahrain. Israel declared a nationwide state of emergency, moving hospitals underground and activating sirens, while Iran, Israel, and Iraq closed their airspace, suspending flights.

The strikes follow disruptions in nuclear deal negotiations between the US and Iran.

US President Trump warned Iranian forces to surrender or face "certain death," framing the operation as an opportunity for citizens to challenge their government. Brigadier General (retd) Amir Avivi, founder of the Israel Defence and Security Forum, predicted the Iranian regime would struggle to withstand the combined military force.

Congress urged immediate diplomatic engagement to de-escalate tensions and called on the government to protect Indian citizens from the growing regional conflict, stressing that safeguarding lives should remain India's highest priority.

Anxiety rises in Kashmir amid Iran tensions

SRINAGAR

Growing Israeli airstrikes on Iranian sites have caused deep anxiety in Kashmir, with families worried about the safety of Indian students, doctors, and professionals in Iran.

Former J&K chief ministers Farooq Abdullah and Omar Abdullah urged students to follow the Ministry of External Affairs advisory and leave Iran while flights and airspace were available. Though many returned, several students and professionals remain stranded.

Dr. Mohammad Momin Khan, national representative of the All India Medical Students Association (AIMSA), called for close coordination between Iranian authorities, universities, and the Indian Embassy. He stressed the need for clear advisories, emergency helplines, and a comprehensive evacuation plan in case the situation worsens. AIMSA also formally appealed to External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar to act swiftly to protect Indian nationals.

TN reports 1.18 cr young voters

CHENNAI

The Election Commission of India (ECI) has confirmed that Tamil Nadu has around 1.18 crore young voters, with 3,060 assistant electoral registration officers deployed to enroll them ahead of the Assembly elections.

The ECI shared the report after reviewing election preparedness on February 26-27 across all 234 assembly constituencies, including 188 general, 44 SC, and 2 ST seats. Data from the final electoral roll published on February 23 shows 12,51,742 first-time voters aged 18-19 and 1,05,31,653 electors aged 20-29.

Targeted campaigns, particularly in colleges, have been launched to integrate these young voters into the democratic process.

Following a Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of the roll since October 2025, Tamil Nadu's total electorate stands at 5,67,07,380, with female electors (2,89,60,838) outnumbering males (2,77,38,925). The roll also includes 7,617 third-gender voters, 67,056 service electors, and 2,530 centenarians.

A total of 75,032 polling stations are planned, with an average of 756 voters per station and a strict cap of 1,200. For the first time, 100% webcasting will be implemented. Accessibility measures include home voting and specially managed booths for PwD and senior citizens.

Specialized booths include 258 women-managed and 265 model stations.

Technological initiatives via ECINET will provide e-voter cards, candidate details, and violation reporting in 23 languages.

Transparency measures include VVPAT verification, reporting within 72 hours, and memory verification of EVMs.

Officials are tasked with monitoring social media, preventing illicit campaign practices, and ensuring polling stations are safe and welcoming for all voters.

Annamalai refuses to comment on Vijay's private life

CHENNAI

Former Tamil Nadu BJP president K. Annamalai said he would not comment on actor-turned-politician Vijay's reported legal issue, calling it a strictly personal matter.

Annamalai referred to media reports that a petition involving Vijay's wife Sangeetha was filed in a Chengalpattu court in December but only recently became public. He stressed the matter should remain between Vijay, his wife, and the judiciary. "I see this as an issue between Vijay, his wife, and the court. It concerns their personal life. I do not want to politicise it," he said. However, he clarified that he would respond to Vijay's political statements when required.

Guj launches HPV vaccination drive

GANDHINAGAR

Gujarat Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel launched a statewide HPV vaccination mega campaign from Sola Civil Hospital, Ahmedabad, aiming to protect adolescent girls from cervical cancer. Prime Minister Narendra Modi inaugurated the nationwide drive virtually from Ajmer, Rajasthan.

Minister of State for Health Praful Pansheriya highlighted that under PM Modi's leadership, Gujarat has remained polio-free since 2007. Vaccines that once required import are now indigenously produced, reflecting India's growing medical self-reliance and embodying 'Atmanirbhar Bharat'. He emphasized that no one should die due to lack of medicines or financial constraints, noting that treatment coverage under the Ayushman Card has been doubled from ₹5 lakh to ₹10 lakh.

The campaign targets around 5.50 lakh girls aged 14 to 15, providing the HPV vaccine free of cost. While a single dose costs approximately ₹3,000, the Gujarat government has allocated ₹150 crore to make the vaccine completely free under the Universal Immunisation Programme. Pansheriya urged parents to avoid misinformation and superstition, stressing that the vaccine is scientifically tested and administered under medical supervision.

Cervical cancer, the second most common cancer among Indian women, is primarily caused by HPV-16 and HPV-18. To ensure effective delivery, 2,297 trained vaccination teams and an equal number of cold chain points have been set up, with storage facilities maintaining temperatures between +2°C and +8°C. Real-time monitoring is enabled via TeCHO+ and SAFE-VAC portals.

Officials including Ahmedabad Mayor Pratibha Jain, Additional Chief Secretary Rajeev Topno, and other dignitaries attended the event. The government urged all parents to vaccinate their 14-year-old daughters and secure a healthier, cancer-free future.

The campaign reflects Gujarat's commitment to public health and preventive care, combining scientific innovation, government support, and public awareness to protect the next generation.

Ex-DG gets TMC candidature for RS

KOLKATA

West Bengal BJP leader Dilip Ghosh alleged former DGP Rajeev Kumar rewarded by TMC for loyalty during crises.

Ghosh on Saturday claimed that the Trinamool Congress (TMC) supremo Mamata Banerjee nominated Rajeev Kumar for a Rajya Sabha seat as recognition for "being with her in all crises." Asked about Kumar, who retired as West Bengal's director general of police on January 31, hosh said it is the TMC's prerogative to choose its nominees for the Upper House elections."But people like Rajeev Kumar were very useful for Mamata Banerjee. In all crises and in running the administration, he has been with her, so he had to be rewarded," Ghosh added. Kumar had previously been at the centre of a high-profile standoff between the state government and central agencies.

Rs 22,516 cr semiconductor plant off to a 'power'ful start

The project, approved under India's Semiconductor Mission, began groundwork in September 2023

SANAND

Prime Minister Narendra Modi visited Sanand on Saturday, holding a lively roadshow before a significant industrial event. PM Modi arrived at Ahmedabad airport around 3:40 pm and drove straight to the Sanand GIDC area. Large crowds gathered along the route to see him, waving and cheering as his motorcade passed.

Eyewitnesses noted the high turnout, reflecting strong public interest. Security personnel managed the crowd, while officials coordinated traffic to ensure smooth movement for both participants and onlookers. Following the roadshow, PM Modi attended the inauguration of a major semiconductor facility by Micron Semiconductor Technology India Private Limited. The Assembly, Test, Marking, and Packaging (ATMP) plant was built with a total investment of Rs 22,516 crore and is among the largest technology investments in India to date.

The facility will convert advanced semiconductor wafers into finished memory and storage products such as DRAM, NAND flash, and solid-state drives, which are crucial for data centers, consumer electronics, and artificial intelligence applications. Union Minister for Electronics and Information Technology Ashwini Vaishnaw and senior Micron executives were present at the inauguration. PM Modi addressed the gathering, highlighting the plant's role in strengthening India's semiconductor ecosystem and manufacturing ambitions. The project, approved under India's Semiconductor Mission, began groundwork in September 2023. Once fully operational, the facility will feature about 5,00,000 square feet of cleanroom space, making it one of the largest of its kind globally.

Around 2,000 workers are currently employed, with expectations that direct employment may reach 5,000 as production expands. Company officials emphasized inclusive hiring practices, offering opportunities to skilled individuals from diverse backgrounds.

The inauguration marks a key milestone in India's technological growth, reflecting the country's push toward self-reliance in semiconductor manufacturing and strengthening its global presence in advanced technology sectors.

Rahul demands funding, tax relief for veterans' pensions

NEW DELHI

Rahul Gandhi, Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha, wrote to Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman requesting increased funding for the Ex-Servicemen Contributory Health Scheme (ECHS) and full income tax exemption on disability pensions.

He described the taxation of disability pensions as "insulting," emphasizing that injured servicemen deserve recognition, not additional financial burden. Gandhi noted that the proposal in the Finance Bill 2026 taxes disability pensions for soldiers who remain in service, a first since 1922.

In his letter, Gandhi highlighted serious ECHS funding shortages. He said over ₹12,000 crore in medical bills are pending, budget allocations are nearly 30% below requirement, and hospitals are withdrawing services due to non-payment. Veterans are forced to pay out of pocket or delay treatment for critical illnesses like cancer. Gandhi stressed that those who served the country are feeling neglected in their hour of need.

He further pointed out that the ECHS is designed to provide the best healthcare for veterans and should receive adequate financial support. The Congress leader stated that a delegation of ex-servicemen had personally brought the issue to his attention, sharing feelings of being let down by their own government.

He described the taxation of disability pensions as "insulting," emphasizing that injured servicemen deserve recognition, not additional financial burden

Gandhi urged the Finance Ministry to clear all pending ECHS liabilities and ensure proper budgetary support. He also called for the restoration of full income tax exemption on disability pensions, arguing that pensions for injuries sustained in service should not be treated as taxable income. Highlighting the selfless service of disabled soldiers who continue in duty, Gandhi said it is "insulting to tax what should be praised."

A copy of the letter was also sent to Defence Minister Rajnath Singh. Gandhi concluded by appealing to the government to provide veterans the respect, support, and financial security they rightfully deserve, emphasizing that these steps reflect a grateful nation's duty to its armed forces.

Opposition parties in Tamil Nadu demand strict action and speedy justice following the murder of a two-year-old girl

TVK PMK blasts DMK over Krishnagiri child murder

CHENNAI

The Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK), led by actor-turned-politician Vijay, strongly condemned the alleged sexual assault and murder of the child in Krishnagiri district. TVK described the act as "heinous and unforgivable" and demanded swift legal action against the accused. The party alleged that the suspect had been a union-level organiser in the youth wing of the ruling Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) and questioned whether individuals with political backing feel above the law. TVK criticised the deteriorating law and order in Tamil Nadu, claiming that people associated with the ruling party were acting without fear of consequences.

It urged the State government to allow the investigation to proceed without political interference and demanded that the case be transferred to a fast-track court. The party also called for the maximum punishment if the accused is found guilty. Pattali Makkal Katchi (PMK) president Dr. Anbumani Ramadoss also condemned the crime, pointing out that the arrested suspect was a DMK youth wing functionary. He claimed that crime rates, including sexual assaults, murders, and robberies, had increased since the DMK returned to power. Dr. Anbumani accused ruling party members of acting as if they had been given a "licence" to commit crimes and criticised the government for failing to act despite earlier statements promising strict measures. He further cited rising crimes against women and children, as well as increased narcotics circulation, and stressed that the government must ensure public safety. The incident has sparked widespread political outrage, with opposition parties intensifying criticism of the DMK over law and order issues in the State.

Tripura Assembly budget session from March 13

AGARTALA

The Tripura Assembly will hold its budget session starting March 13, with Governor Indrasena Reddy Nallu addressing the House.

Officials said the Governor's address will mark the opening of the ninth session of the 13th Tripura Assembly. The full schedule and business of the session will be finalised at a Business Advisory Committee meeting on March 6. During the session, a new Speaker may be elected following the death of sitting Speaker Biswa Bandhu Sen on December 26 last year. Assembly Secretary Amiya Kanti Nath said the formal process for electing a new Speaker has not started, and no official notification has been issued yet.

Political sources suggest several BJP MLAs are likely contenders for the post. Tribal leader Ram Pada Jamatia, elected from the Bagma constituency in Gomati district, is considered a frontrunner. The BJP has not officially announced its candidate. Sen, a four-time MLA, passed away at the age of 72 in Bengaluru after over four months of medical treatment. Finance Minister Pranajit Singha Roy will present the Budget for the 2026–27 financial year during the session. While the Budget is usually presented on the opening day, the final decision will be taken at the March 6 committee meeting. This will be the third Budget of the BJP-led government's second term. The Budget is expected to increase allocations for the Tripura Tribal Areas Autonomous District Council (TTAADC), as the 28-member tribal body is likely to go to crucial polls in March or April. Officials said the session will also focus on legislative work and discussions related to development, governance, and welfare initiatives across the state.

Manjhi reminds NDA about RS promise

PATNA

Hindustani Awam Morcha (HAM) leader Jitan Ram Manjhi has reminded the NDA of a previous commitment regarding a Rajya Sabha seat.

Amid seat-sharing talks for the upcoming Rajya Sabha elections, Manjhi said, "I am not angry, but we were told we would get two Lok Sabha seats and one Rajya Sabha seat. It was said to be written in stone. However, we received only one Lok Sabha seat. We thank Prime Minister Narendra Modi for that." He added that while he is not demanding the Rajya Sabha berth, the promised seat should be honoured.

"If you want to give, that's fine; if you don't want to give, that's fine too. But you had promised, and I will always maintain that promise," he stated.

A total of 37 Rajya Sabha seats across the country are up for polls, including five from Bihar. The terms of three NDA MPs and two Grand Alliance MPs are ending. To win one seat, the NDA requires 41 MLAs, but winning all five would need 205, making the fifth seat.

Kerala govt sets up helpdesk for Gulf expatriates

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Kerala moves quickly to support Gulf expatriates amid rising Iran-Israel tensions and missile strikes.

Amid escalating hostilities between Iran and Israel, the Kerala government has set up a dedicated helpdesk to assist Malayali expatriates in West Asia.

The action comes after a US-Israel strike on Iranian targets triggered a major retaliatory missile barrage from Tehran. Reports said Iran launched around 30 missiles at Israel, prompting the Israeli Air Force to activate its air defence systems. Explosions were also reported in Bahrain, home to the U.S. Fifth Fleet, raising fears of a wider regional conflict.

Precautionary measures followed across the Gulf, with Qatar, Kuwait, and the UAE temporarily closing airspace amid security alerts. Iran warned that U.S. and Israeli bases in the region could be potential targets, increasing concern for the large Indian diaspora. Kerala has a substantial population working in Bahrain, UAE, Kuwait, Qatar, and Saudi Arabia, employed across healthcare, construction, retail, and financial sectors. The safety of these expatriates is critical both for families and Kerala's remittance-driven economy.

Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan instructed the Non-Resident Keralites Affairs (NORKA) Department to establish the helpdesk.

NCP recasts Ajit Pawar legacy after bank case closure

MUMBAI

The closure of the Rs 25,000 crore MSCB scam case allows NCP to reshape Ajit Pawar's legacy and political narrative.

The special court accepted the closure report in the Maharashtra State Cooperative Bank (MSCB) scam case, clearing the name of former Deputy Chief Minister and NCP leader Ajit Pawar posthumously.

The decision comes a month after Pawar's death in a plane crash at Baramati on January 28. Nearly 70 individuals, including Deputy Chief Minister Sunetra Pawar and MLA Rohit Pawar, also benefit from the ruling, marking the end of a decade-long legal battle.

Senior NCP leaders described the timing as "coincidental but symbolic," noting the verdict allows Sunetra Pawar to lead the party without the shadow of Enforcement Directorate or Economic Offences Wing investigations over her family. Another senior leader said the party can now present Ajit Pawar's legacy as one of "persecution" rather than "corruption."

The case involved alleged irregularities in loan disbursements between 2007 and 2011 to sugar factories and spinning mills.

SHOW OF UNITY

Imam asks mosques to open doors for Attukal pongala

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

As Attukal Pongala approaches on March 3, Kerala's Muslim community has extended a warm invitation to Hindu devotees. Palayam Imam V P Suhaib Maulavi called for mosques and Muslim homes to be opened to visitors, ensuring drinking water, food, and resting facilities.

In a speech that quickly went viral, Maulavi said, "Attukal Pongala is just some days away. It is associated with a different faith, so we do not participate in the festivities, but we can be hosts to the many guests arriving in Thiruvananthapuram." He added that this year, the festival coincides with Ramadan, emphasizing the shared spirit of joy, fraternity, and love.

The cleric urged the community to show hospitality and brotherhood by welcoming devotees into mosques and homes, offering support and comfort. "Arrangements should be made for their rest. Our mosques and homes should be opened to them. This is an occasion to openly demonstrate our love and brotherhood," he said.

Social media users praised the gesture as a symbol of Kerala's unity and harmony. Many shared the video of Maulavi's speech, calling it the "real Kerala story," highlighting how compassion transcends religious boundaries. Amid debates over the upcoming film 'The Kerala Story 2,' the Imam's words reminded residents of the state's longstanding tradition of interfaith respect and hospitality.

Netizens commented on the video, saying, "It is our duty to welcome them. We should open our homes and mosques for them to rest." The initiative reflects Kerala's spirit, where faiths meet, kindness flows, and humanity shines brighter than any tradition, making the festival not just a religious occasion, but a celebration of unity and mutual respect.

Greece issues shipping alert amid Middle East tensions

Athens

The Greek Shipping Ministry has advised all Greek-flagged vessels to exercise extreme caution and avoid the Persian Gulf, Gulf of Oman, and Strait of Hormuz after recent U.S. and Israeli strikes on Iran. Officials warned of heightened navigation risks across these waters and the North Arabian Sea, urging operators to implement maximum security measures and remain alert in Israeli ports. The advisory cited potential escalation to the Red Sea and Gulf of Aden, including missile, drone, electronic interference, and navigation system disruptions. Crews must remain highly vigilant.

US-Israel strikes ignite middle east crises

Explosions were reported in Bahrain, Qatar, and the United Arab Emirates, raising fears of a wider conflict

WASHINGTON

The United States and Israel launched major air and sea strikes on Iran on Saturday, marking a dramatic escalation in Middle East tensions. US President Donald Trump said the operation aimed to remove what he called an "imminent threat" and prevent Iran from developing nuclear weapons.

The Pentagon named the campaign "Operation Epic Fury." According to officials, the first wave mainly targeted senior Iranian leaders and security officials. An Israeli official claimed Iran's Supreme Leader Ali Khamenei and President Masoud Pezeshkian were among the targets, though their status was unclear. Iranian sources said several Revolutionary Guard commanders were killed, but this could not be independently confirmed.

Iran responded by launching missiles and drones toward Israel and warned that U.S. bases in the region were within reach. Explosions were reported in Bahrain, Qatar, and the United Arab Emirates, raising fears of a wider conflict. Gulf oil-producing nations are on high alert as tensions threaten global energy supplies. Flights across the Middle East were cancelled, and long queues formed at banks and fuel stations in Iran as citizens prepared for uncertainty.

Trump urged Iranians to stay safe but also encouraged them to "take over" their government once the strikes end. Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said the attack would help create conditions for change in Iran.

The confrontation follows failed nuclear talks between Washington and Tehran earlier this week. Diplomatic hopes now appear dim as both sides signal readiness for further action.

The situation remains tense, with military operations expected to continue for several days, raising global concerns over stability, oil markets, and civilian safety.

Iran must never be allowed to develop nuclear weapons: UK

LONDON

Britain has stated that Iran must never be permitted to develop nuclear weapons and emphasized its readiness to defend national interests following recent U.S. and Israeli strikes on Iranian targets.

A UK government source confirmed that Britain did not participate in the attacks. Prime Minister Keir Starmer is set to convene an emergency COBRA meeting on Saturday to assess the situation.

"Iran must never be allowed to develop a nuclear weapon, and that is why we have continually supported efforts to reach a negotiated solution," a government spokesperson said. The UK has bolstered its defensive capabilities in the Middle East as part of commitments to the security of its allies and stands ready to protect its interests.

While stressing the importance of preventing further escalation, the spokesperson highlighted Britain's priority on the safety of its nationals in the region and assured consular support for citizens.

In response to the evolving situation, the UK issued a travel advisory advising against all travel to Israel and the Palestinian territories, updating its previous guidance issued on Friday against non-essential travel to these regions.

Britain continues to monitor developments closely and has reaffirmed its commitment to regional stability and diplomatic solutions to prevent nuclear proliferation.

Lebanon PM warns against risky escalation

BEIRUT

Lebanon's Prime Minister Nawaf Salam has warned against dragging the country into dangerous regional conflicts, urging restraint amid rising tensions following strikes on Iran.

In a statement issued after Israel and the United States carried out attacks on Iranian targets, Salam referred to the "serious developments" unfolding across the Middle East. He called on all Lebanese groups to act with wisdom and place national interests above external agendas.

Without naming the group directly, his remarks were widely seen as an indirect message to Hezbollah, the Iran-backed armed movement that has fought multiple conflicts with Israel. Hezbollah was formed in 1982 with support from Iran's Revolutionary Guards and remains a powerful political and military force in Lebanon.

"I reiterate that we will not accept anyone dragging the country into adventures that threaten its security and unity," Salam said, stressing the importance of preserving stability.

His warning comes amid reports that Israel has cautioned Lebanon it would respond forcefully if Hezbollah becomes involved in any wider U.S.-Iran confrontation. Previous fighting between Israel and Hezbollah, including a major conflict in 2024, resulted in heavy casualties and widespread destruction in Lebanon. During that war, longtime Hezbollah leader Hassan Nasrallah was killed, and significant portions of the group's arsenal were destroyed.

Observers say Lebanon's fragile political and economic situation leaves little room for another major conflict. Salam's statement underscores growing concern that escalating regional hostilities could destabilize the country unless restraint prevails among all parties.

Pakistan faces growing youth drug crisis

ISLAMABAD

Pakistan is witnessing a serious rise in drug abuse and suicides among young people, raising concern among health experts and policymakers, highlights a deepening crisis affecting adolescents and young adults across the country.

A 2025 review of rehabilitation cases found that heroin accounts for 48 per cent of substance abuse among youth, while cannabis makes up 28 per cent. The study noted that 35 per cent of users began taking drugs during adolescence and 46 per cent were also diagnosed with depression.

A 2024 survey at University of Karachi revealed that 44 per cent of college students admitted to drug use, including 53 per cent of males and 31 per cent of females. Online purchase of drugs is also increasing, making access easier.

Suicide has reportedly become the fourth leading cause of death among Pakistanis under 30. Teenagers aged 15 to 18 are particularly vulnerable. Poisoning and hanging are the most common methods. Due to stigma and legal issues, official data remains limited.

According to estimates cited from the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime, nearly six per cent of Pakistan's population, around 6.7 to 7.6 million people, use drugs. About four million require structured treatment.

Experts say poverty, untreated mental illness and easy availability of drugs are major causes. They warn that unless urgent action is taken, the crisis will continue to grow silently and affect future generations.

BNP faces challenge restoring judicial trust

DHAKA

The Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP) government, led by Tarique Rahman, has taken office with a strong parliamentary majority but faces a major challenge in rebuilding public trust in Bangladesh's judiciary.

According to an opinion article published in The Daily Star, the justice system in recent years has created growing public concern rather than confidence. Md. Arifujjaman, Deputy Solicitor under the Ministry of Law, Justice and Parliamentary Affairs, wrote that the new administration has inherited institutional weaknesses and public scepticism.

He stressed that restoring faith in the judiciary requires transparency, accountability and careful reform. Laws that allowed mass arrests and broad powers under national security or digital regulations must be reviewed to prevent misuse. He also said judicial appointments and disciplinary systems should remain free from political influence.

Laws that enabled mass arrests and broad prosecutorial discretion, particularly under the guise of national security or digital regulation, must be carefully reviewed and refined to prevent abuse.

Arifujjaman noted that cases seen as politically motivated may need fair and principled review. He cautioned political leaders against commenting on ongoing investigations, saying such actions weaken public confidence.

Despite holding a two-thirds majority in parliament, he argued that legal changes alone cannot restore belief in justice. Public trust, he said, must be earned gradually through consistent and impartial application of the law.

He concluded that if the government ensures courts remain independent and free from partisan pressure, it will strengthen Bangladesh's democratic foundations and reaffirm that justice serves all citizens equally, not the powerful alone.

Cuba details arms seized after clash

HAVANA

Cuban authorities said a group of armed exiles who tried to enter the island by speedboat carried nearly 13,000 rounds of ammunition along with rifles and pistols before a deadly clash at sea.

Officials in Havana stated that 10 Cuban nationals travelling from the United States entered Cuban waters on Wednesday and opened fire on a border guard vessel. Cuban forces returned fire, killing four of the attackers and wounding six others, who were later detained.

Senior officers from the Interior Ministry displayed 12,846 recovered rounds of ammunition, 13 rifles and 11 pistols on state television. They said the firefight took place at a range of about 20 meters after the attackers first opened fire from a greater distance.

According to authorities, the group departed from Marathon in the Florida Keys on two boats but abandoned one due to technical problems. They allegedly planned to target military units and create unrest. Colonel Victor Alvarez accused the infiltrators of attempting to incite disorder and violence against the Communist-led government.

UN alarm over deported Uyghur men

GENEVA

United Nations experts have voiced deep concern over 40 Uyghur men deported from Thailand to China last year, saying their fate and whereabouts remain unknown.

The experts said Thailand sent the men back on February 27, 2025, reportedly under strong pressure from Beijing. They stressed that the deportations were carried out without applying the international legal safeguard known as the principle of non-refoulement, which prohibits returning individuals to places where they may face serious harm.

According to the UN experts, the men had been held for more than a decade at Bangkok's Suan Phlu Immigration Detention Centre in poor conditions and without contact with their families or lawyers. They warned that the deportations exposed the men to possible enforced disappearance, torture and even arbitrary deprivation of life.

The statement said families have received no reliable or verified information about whether their relatives are alive, where they are being held or in what condition. The experts described the situation as part of a broader pattern of transnational repression targeting ethnic and religious minorities viewed as critical of the Chinese government.

Pak-Taliban clash as talks intensify

KABUL

Fighting between Pakistan and Afghanistan's Taliban forces entered a third day on Saturday, raising fears of a wider regional conflict even as diplomatic efforts gathered pace.

Pakistani officials said strikes targeted Taliban military posts in Kabul and Kandahar, marking one of the deepest incursions into Afghanistan in recent years. Islamabad has accused the Taliban of sheltering militants from Tehreek-e-Taliban Pakistan (TTP), who it says are carrying out attacks inside Pakistan. The Taliban denies the charge and called the strikes a violation of Afghan sovereignty.

Pakistan described its military action as a response to cross-border assaults. Defence Minister Khawaja Muhammad Asif said the country's "patience has overflowed," warning of further retaliation if attacks continue.

Taliban Interior Minister Sirajuddin Haqqani said the conflict would be costly and claimed Afghan forces were defending their territory. Both sides reported heavy casualties, though figures remain unverified.

International concern has grown. The European Union and the United Nations called for immediate de-escalation and dialogue. China and Russia also urged restraint. A spokesperson for the U.S. Department of State said the United States supports Pakistan's right to defend itself against attacks but hopes tensions do not escalate further.

Afghanistan's Foreign Minister Amir Khan Muttaqi reportedly discussed easing tensions with Saudi Arabia's Foreign Minister Prince Faisal bin Farhan.

Solutions to Yesterday's puzzle

BIG WIN FOR MILEI

Argentina clears historic labour reform

BUENOS AIRES

Argentina's Senate has approved a major labor reform backed by President Javier Milei, delivering one of the most significant legislative victories of his administration.

The bill passed with 42 votes in favor, 28 against and two abstentions, clearing the way for it to become law. Milei's government says the reform will encourage investment, promote formal employment and strengthen confidence in Argentina's economy.

Supporters argue the changes are key to advancing Milei's free-market agenda, which has focused on stabilizing the exchange rate and reducing inflation. Monthly inflation has slowed sharply in recent months, earning praise from the International Monetary Fund.

However, labor unions and opposition lawmakers strongly oppose the reform, saying it weakens worker protections. One of the most controversial measures creates an employer-financed severance fund using contributions currently directed to the national pension system. Critics warn this could strain pension resources and make layoffs easier.

The law also relaxes hiring rules, modifies vacation policies, allows the standard workday to extend from eight to 12 hours and permits salaries to be paid in foreign currency.

Unions have staged protests, including a nationwide strike, objecting particularly to new limits on the right to strike that require essential services to maintain minimum operations during work stoppages.

Analysts say the Senate vote signals that Milei has enough political backing to push forward broader economic reforms, even as debates continue over the social impact of his policies.

Gold, silver prices likely to surge as Israel-Iran war escalates

New Delhi

Gold and silver prices are expected to open sharply higher on Monday as escalating tensions between Israel and Iran push investors towards safe-haven assets, market experts said on Saturday. Experts believed that rising uncertainty following Israel's preventive strikes on Iran could drive investors towards gold and silver, boosting prices further. Tehran was rocked by massive explosions on Saturday after Israel launched what it described as preventive missile strikes against Iran, dramatically escalating tensions in the region. Against this backdrop, analysts said the rising war buzz is expected to fuel uncertainty in financial markets.

Pentagon shuns Anthropic, picks OpenAI in its classified network

The United States Department of Defense has decided to deploy OpenAI's artificial intelligence models on its classified network, even as it distances itself from Anthropic over disagreements on AI safety and military use, OpenAI chief Sam Altman said on Saturday. Altman confirmed the development, saying the company has reached an agreement with the Pentagon to move forward with the deployment. In a post on X, Altman said OpenAI's discussions with the Department of Defense showed deep respect for safety and a shared goal of achieving the best possible outcome.

India's rise from fragile 5 to global powerhouse

Union Minister highlights economic transformation, innovation surge, and roadmap toward Viksit Bharat by 2047.

NEW DELHI

Union Minister of State Dr. Jitendra Singh on Saturday said that India's remarkable journey from being grouped among the 'Fragile Five' economies in 2014 to becoming the world's fourth largest economy marks a decisive shift in national confidence, capability, and direction.

Delivering the P Parameswaran Memorial Lecture in Thiruvananthapuram, the minister asserted that India is firmly on course to become the third largest global economy in the near future and achieve the vision of 'Viksit Bharat' by 2047.

Dr. Singh pointed out that in 2014 India was ranked 81st in the Global Innovation Index, but has since climbed to the 38th position, reflecting the country's growing emphasis on research, technology, and entrepreneurship. He emphasized that the transformation is not merely statistical but structural, driven by policy reforms and a strong push for innovation-led growth.

Highlighting the success of the startup ecosystem, the minister said India now has over two lakh startups generating more than 21 lakh jobs across sectors. Recalling the launch of the Start Up India initiative in 2015, he noted that the concept was initially unfamiliar to many, but has since evolved into a nationwide movement fostering enterprise and innovation. Nearly half of these startups are emerging from tier 2 and tier 3 cities, indicating balanced regional growth, while a significant proportion are women-led enterprises.

Dr. Singh also observed that the discourse on women empowerment is undergoing a meaningful shift, with women scientists and innovators leading some of the country's most prestigious national missions in space, science, and governance. On research and intellectual property, he said India now ranks sixth globally in patent filings, with more than 60 per cent of applications filed by resident Indians.

India is also among the leading nations in scientific publications, with a growing number of highly cited research papers. Thousands of Indian scientists feature among the top two per cent globally, underscoring international recognition of India's scientific talent.

The minister added that policy reforms have opened new avenues for private sector participation, resulting in rapid expansion of the country's space economy. Indigenous capabilities in defence manufacturing and advanced technologies have strengthened considerably, contributing to rising exports and enhanced self-reliance.

He further stated that exploration of marine resources, deep-sea minerals, and biodiversity will significantly contribute to future economic value addition. Emphasizing the role of young citizens, Dr. Singh said that the vision of 'Viksit Bharat' will ultimately be shaped and realized by the youth of today.

Global oil prices to rise as US-Israel launch massive attack

TEHRAN

'Any disruption in the narrow maritime passage could significantly impact global energy supplies'

Global oil markets are bracing for a sharp rise in crude prices following the massive combat operation launched by the United States and Israel against Iran, a move that has pushed the strategically vital Strait of Hormuz into the centre of a growing conflict zone.

Analysts warn that any disruption in the narrow maritime passage could significantly impact global energy supplies.

The Strait of Hormuz, which connects the Persian Gulf with the Gulf of Oman and the Arabian Sea, handles more than 20 per cent of the world's oil shipments. With heavy missile exchanges reported in the region and US President Donald Trump stating that the annihilation of Iran's navy is a key objective of the military campaign, concerns are mounting over the safe passage of oil tankers through the corridor.

Market experts believe oil prices will incorporate a war premium reflecting heightened geopolitical risks. The coordinated strikes by the United States and Israel mark a major escalation in tensions, with Tehran launching retaliatory attacks, raising fears of a prolonged confrontation that could unsettle global energy flows.

On Friday, oil markets had already reacted to rising tensions. Brent crude settled 2 per cent higher at $72.48 per barrel, driven by supply concerns and uncertainty over potential disruptions. Analysts suggest that further escalation could trigger a sharper spike.

Barclays said in a note that Brent crude could climb to around $80 per barrel in the event of significant supply disruption. The bank noted that while markets are currently pricing in geopolitical risks, an escalation does not automatically translate into immediate supply shortages. However, the risk of disruption remains elevated given the scale of military operations.

Energy economists point out that even without a direct blockade of the Strait of Hormuz, shipping delays, insurance surcharges, and heightened security risks could add to costs, pushing global crude benchmarks upward.

Meanwhile, a senior Indian official said that India has strengthened its energy security in recent years by diversifying oil imports beyond Gulf suppliers. A substantial portion of India's crude now comes from countries outside the Strait of Hormuz route, reducing vulnerability to potential chokepoints in the region.

Despite diversification efforts, analysts caution that as a major oil importer, India remains exposed to global price fluctuations. A sustained spike in crude prices could have implications for inflation, fuel costs, and fiscal balances worldwide, as markets closely monitor developments in the volatile Middle East.

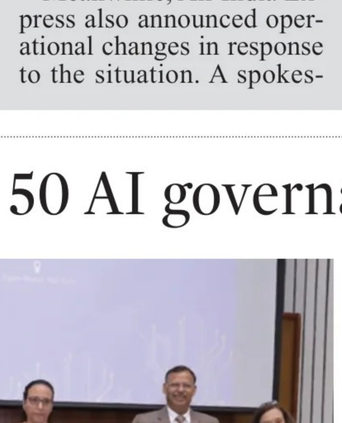
NEW DELHI



Air India on Saturday announced the suspension of all its flights to destinations across the Middle East following rapidly escalating tensions in the region. The move comes in the wake of coordinated military operations launched by the United States and Israel against Iran, significantly intensifying geopolitical instability.

In an official statement, Air India said, In view of the developing situation in parts of the Middle East, all Air India flights to all destinations in the Middle East have been suspended. The airline emphasized that passenger and crew safety remains its top priority. It added that it will continue to closely monitor the evolving security environment and adjust operations proactively as required.

The suspension follows reports that the United States and Israel began what they described as major combat operations targeting Iran. AI will change jobs, not end them: Amazon CEO

WASHINGTON

Fears that artificial intelligence could lead to massive job losses may be exaggerated, according to Amazon CEO Andy Jassy. Speaking in a media interview, Jassy said AI is more likely to reshape the nature of work rather than completely eliminate employment opportunities.

Jassy acknowledged that many roles which have relied heavily on human labour for the past two to three decades may require fewer people in the future. However, he stressed that this does not mean jobs will disappear altogether.

Instead, new types of roles will emerge, just as they have during every major technological shift in history. I do believe that a lot of the jobs that we've thrown human beings at the last 20 or 30 years, you won't need as many human beings doing those same jobs. But I also think there will be other jobs created. And that has always happened in every technology shift, he said. Meanwhile, multiple reports also suggested that AI will reshape jobs, not destroy them.

Morgan Stanley in recent report suggested that the long-term impact may be less severe than many expect. While some roles will be automated, most workers are unlikely to be permanently left behind. Instead, many are expected to shift into new types of jobs, including roles that do not yet exist, the report stated.

To support its argument, Morgan Stanley pointed to major technological shifts over the past 150 years, including electricity, mechanised farming, computers and the internet. These innovations transformed industries and altered job requirements, but they did not replace human labour altogether.

While spreadsheets reduced the need for certain clerical tasks, they also enabled financial professionals to focus on more complex and higher-value work. Over time, this shift helped create new careers in finance rather than destroy the sector.

NITI Aayog unveils frontier 50 AI governance roadmap

NEW DELHI

NITI Aayog has unveiled a comprehensive roadmap to operationalise Frontier Technologies across 50 Aspirational Blocks, marking a strategic transition from digital governance to intelligent AI-enabled governance in public policy.

Under the Jal Jeevan Mission, rural tap water coverage has expanded through geo-tagged assets and pipeline mapping integrated with PM Gati Shakti. The initiative emphasises the leadership of District Collectors, Village Water and Sanitation Committees (VWSCs), and rigorous water quality testing to ensure sustainable outcomes.

Digital livestock governance through Pashu Aadhaar enables real-time vaccination tracking and the creation of AI-ready datasets for improved disease surveillance. Meanwhile, the Digital Agriculture Mission is building interoperable digital public infrastructure through AgriStack and Bharat Vistaar, integrating farmer registries, geo-referenced land maps, and multilingual advisory services to empower farmers with actionable insights.

In banking and financial services, artificial intelligence is being deployed to strengthen credit scoring, fraud detection, anti-money laundering compliance, Know Your Customer (KYC) automation, and monitoring of financial inclusion indicators.

The workshop also highlighted emerging needs such as assessments in borewell-dependent regions, improved API integration for seamless data exchange, enhanced POSHAN validation mechanisms, and augmented reality-based training modules for frontline workers.

Officials said the Frontier 50 initiative will function as real-world impact sandboxes, enabling evidence-based policy experimentation and scalable AI-driven governance models aimed at accelerating development outcomes across Aspirational Blocks.

NEW DELHI

South Africa will aim to extend their unbeaten streak in the 2026 ICC Men's T20 World Cup when they face Zimbabwe in their final Super Eights fixture at the Arun Jaitley Stadium on Sunday afternoon.

The Proteas have been the standout side of the tournament, winning all six of their matches and maintaining a formidable run rate of 10, the highest among all competing teams.

South Africa's top order has provided consistent support, with Quinton de Kock and Ryan Rickelton delivering key contributions. The team's top three average 42.1 in the tournament, just marginally behind Zimbabwe's impressive 44.8. Against spin.

LUCY HAMILTON Nears Potential International Debut

HOBART

Uncapped teenage fast bowler Lucy Hamilton is edging closer to a potential international debut after being named in contention for the third and final ODI of the ongoing series against India. The Australia women's national cricket team are currently managing a growing injury list, prompting selectors to explore fresh options as they look to seal the series.

Australia hold a 6–4 advantage in the multi-format points-based contest following a commanding victory at Bellerive Oval on Friday. A clean sweep of the ODI leg in Hobart would ensure they retain the series trophy before attention shifts to the upcoming day-night Test in Perth. Hamilton, a promising left-arm quick, was added to the squad after injuries to Kim Garth and Ellyse Perry disrupted the bowling unit. The young pacer has been steadily increasing her workload in preparation for the longer format and was seen bowling extended spells in the nets during Friday's fixture. Her early call-up has accelerated her exposure to the national environment, with team management closely assessing her readiness for international cricket.

Australia selector Shawn Flegler confirmed Hamilton is firmly in the mix for Sunday's clash. That's one of the opportunities for us. We'll look at how things go today (in the second ODI) ... hopefully we get another win, and then that gives us an opportunity to have a look at Luce possibly in game three, Flegler was quoted as saying. He added that Hamilton's inclusion in the ODI squad came slightly earlier than originally planned but provides valuable experience around the group.

We do not really care about the perfect game, says Will Jacks

COLOMBO

All-rounder Will Jacks believes England doesn't need a perfect game to lift the 2026 ICC Men's T20 World Cup title.

Having sealed a semi-final berth with a thrilling last-over win over New Zealand in Colombo his fourth Player-of-the-Match award of the tournament Jacks made it clear that results, not perfection, were what mattered.

We've won six out of seven games and we've qualified for a semi-final. At the end of the day, no one really cares (about the perfect game).

We obviously want to play well in there, but we're not gutted that we haven't played the perfect game because we're winning. And that's T20 cricket, that's professional sport. It's also incredibly hard to do that.

You're playing against a very strong side who have prepared as well as you, and they know what they're trying to do and they're also trying to play the perfect game.

So the chances of that happening are very slim. What we've done well is, in the key moments, we've kept a calm and clear head and we've managed to negotiate those well.

Under Harry Brook's leadership, they have repeatedly found themselves in tricky positions, only for someone to step up.

Gukesh loses to Van Foreest; Aravindh draws to Parham

PRAGUE

World Champion Gukesh Dommaraju suffered a shock defeat to Grand Master Jorden van Foreest on Saturday in round three of the 2026 Prague Chess Festival Masters. After the other games ended in draws, van Foreest moved into a four-way tie for first place with GMs Nodirbek Abdusattorov, Nodirbek Yakubboev, and David Navara.

Van Foreest now shares the lead, while Gukesh has fallen into a four-way tie for last place. However, there are still six rounds left, so it's very early in the tournament. Van Foreest suffered a tough loss to Anton in round two, but he can now celebrate victories over both top-seed GM Vincent Keymer and the world champion within just three rounds.

The Dutchman stated, Of course I'm super-happy! Not only is it my first win against a world champion, but also my first win against Gukesh. Even before he was world champion, I played him a couple of times, but I never won against him and he won against me several times. Van Foreest shared his thought process during the match: He was looking rather calm, and I was like, am I missing something? I didn't see it, so I thought I had to go for it.

NEW GENERATION SHINES AT KHELO INDIA WINTER GAMES

GULMARG

From February 23 to 26, the snow-covered meadows of Gulmarg transformed into a high-altitude arena as they hosted the 6th edition of the Khelo India Winter Games.

While seasoned champions once again displayed their dominance on the slopes, the 2026 edition will be remembered for something more profound the unmistakable arrival of a fearless new generation of winter athletes.

Against the breathtaking backdrop of the Pir Panjal range, skiers, snowboarders, and ice sport athletes battled both competitors and the biting cold. The established heavyweights carved their familiar arcs across the powdery slopes, reaffirming their stature in Indian winter sports.

Yet, amid the expected medal tallies and podium finishes, it was the fresh faces who quietly stole the spotlight.

Teenage skiers attacked downhill courses with confidence beyond their years, matching seasoned campaigners turn for turn. In snowboarding events, youngsters displayed daring tricks and clean landings, earning applause from coaches and spectators alike.

Ice hockey rinks echoed with the energy of emerging players determined to challenge the established order.

Wolves Beat Villa 2-0 In West Midlands Derby

Joao Gomes scores first goal of season as Wolves secure rare win over Aston Villa

WOLVERHAMPTON

Wolverhampton Wanderers produced a spirited display to defeat local rivals Aston Villa 2-0 in the West Midlands derby, earning only their second win of the Premier League season and ensuring they will not go down as the worst side in the competition's history.

Joao Gomes opened his account for the campaign with a crucial goal, helping Wolves climb to 13 points from 29 matches.

The victory means they have surpassed Derby County's record-low tally of 11 points set during the 2007-08 season, a mark long associated with the poorest campaign in Premier League history. Despite remaining at the bottom of the table, Wolves' performance offered renewed belief and pride to their supporters at Molineux.

Villa, who remain third with 51 points from 28 games, missed the chance to strengthen their hold on a Champions League qualification spot. They are six points clear of fifth-placed Chelsea but have managed just three wins in their last 10 league outings, raising concerns about their recent form at a crucial stage of the season.

After a tightly contested first half played in driving rain that left the surface slick and difficult, Wolves broke the deadlock in the 61st minute with their first shot on target. Jackson Tchatchoua delivered a precise cross from the right flank, and Adam Armstrong's deft touch set up Gomes perfectly. From 15 metres out, the Brazilian midfielder calmly steered the ball into the net to spark celebrations among the home crowd.

Wolves continued to show resilience and discipline, defending stoutly while looking dangerous on the counterattack. Substitute Rodrigo Gomes sealed the result late in the match, finishing confidently to double the lead and underline the gulf between league positions did not reflect the balance of play on the night.

It was a very good performance, every player did well, said Wolves goalkeeper Jose Sa after the final whistle.

We have a lot of character, we will keep fighting game-by-game and see what happens.

Nations Boycott Paralympics Opening Over Russia Participation

AMPEZZO

Several countries to skip Verona ceremony protesting Russian and Belarusian inclusion under flags.

International Paralympic Committee (IPC) is facing mounting political pressure just days before the Paralympics open in Verona, as a growing list of nations plans to boycott the opening ceremony in protest at the participation of Russian and Belarusian athletes under their national flags.

The escalating diplomatic row threatens to overshadow the start of the Milano Cortina Paralympics.

The IPC has allocated 10 combined slots to athletes from Russia and Belarus, permitting them to compete under their own flags and with their national anthems. The decision, taken in September 2025, has sparked controversy against the backdrop of Russia's four-year invasion of Ukraine, with critics arguing that allowing national symbols undermines international efforts to isolate Moscow.

Ukraine was the first to announce it would boycott the ceremony, signaling its opposition to the IPC's ruling.

The move has since encouraged other nations to follow suit. Finland confirmed that it will not attend the opening event, according to IPC Chief Brand and Communications Officer Craig Spence.

The Czech Republic, which had initially cited scheduling conflicts in December, later revised its position and declared it would also boycott the ceremony in protest.

Through media statements, Latvia, Poland and the Netherlands have likewise indicated they intend to skip the opening festivities. While none of these countries have withdrawn their athletes from competition, their absence from the ceremony sends a strong symbolic message of disapproval.

The IPC has defended its stance, maintaining that sport should remain neutral and inclusive, and that athletes should not be punished for the actions of their governments. However, the decision has reignited debate over the role of international sporting bodies in times of geopolitical conflict.

With the Games set to begin in Verona in a week, attention is increasingly focused not only on athletic competition but also on the broader political tensions surrounding the event. The controversy underscores the delicate balance sports organizations must strike between inclusivity and global accountability during periods of international crisis.

Billie Jean King Defends Women's Team After Trump Joke

WASHINGTON

American tennis icon Billie Jean King has weighed in on the controversy surrounding the U.S. men's Olympic gold medal-winning ice hockey team after some players were heard laughing at a joke made by Donald Trump about the women's team, which also secured gold at the Milano Cortina Olympics.

During a Sunday phone call congratulating the men's team on their overtime victory over Canada, Trump invited the players to attend the State of the Union address and visit the White House. While acknowledging the women's championship success, he remarked, I must tell you, we're going to have to bring the women's team, you do know that? He then joked that failing to invite the women would likely lead to his impeachment.

Audio of the call indicated that several members of the men's team laughed at the comment, prompting swift backlash online from fans and commentators who viewed the remark as diminishing the women's achievement.

King, a 39-time Grand Slam champion across singles, doubles and mixed doubles, responded on social media platform X by underscoring the importance of leadership and respect. A longtime advocate for equality in sports and society, she wrote that character is demonstrated not only in public statements but also in private moments.

Messi Knocked Down During Inter Miami Friendly Win

MIAMI

Inter Miami's Lionel Messi was knocked to the ground by a security guard while a shirtless fan attempted to embrace him during their 2-1 friendly victory over Ecuadorean champions Independiente del Valle in Puerto Rico on Thursday.

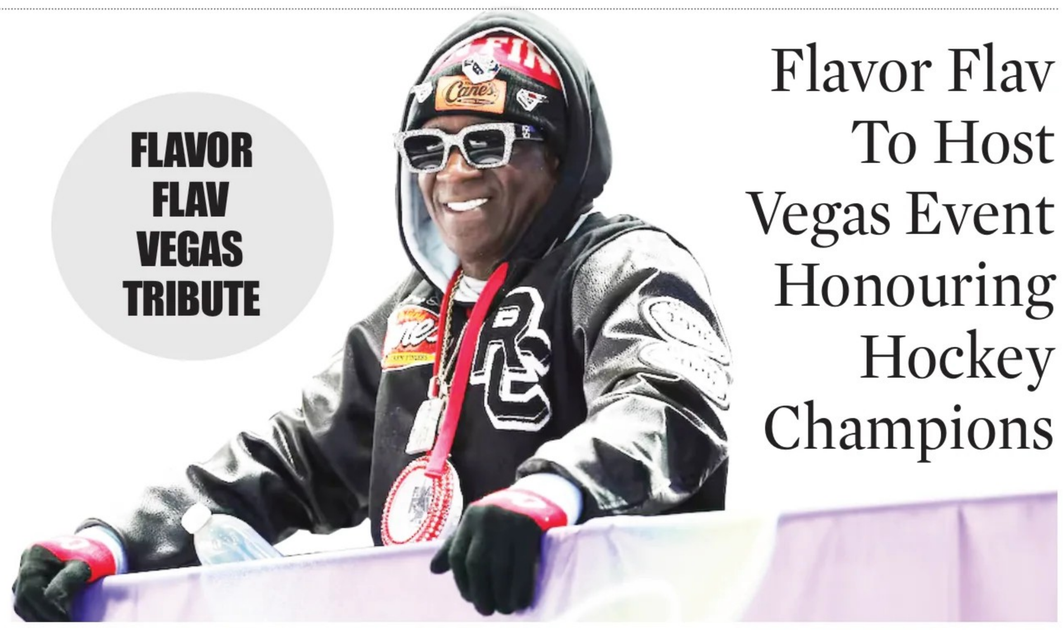
The incident occurred near the end of the match at Estadio Juan Ramon Loubriel in Bayamon. A fan ran onto the field and reached the centre circle, wrapping his arms around the two-time MLS Most Valuable Player.

As security intervened, a guard pulled the pitch invader to the ground but inadvertently dragged Messi down in the process.

Before the situation was brought under control, two other fans had also entered the field.

One, wearing a Barcelona jersey, managed to take a selfie with the Argentine icon, while another in an Inter Miami shirt had Messi briefly sign his jersey.

The chaotic scene unfolded despite visible security presence around the pitch. Messi, 38, quickly rose to his feet and appeared unharmed following the collision.



Flavor Flav To Host Vegas Event Honouring Hockey Champions

AMPEZZO

Flavor Flav will host a special celebration in Las Vegas this July to honour the U.S. women's ice hockey team following their gold medal triumph at the Milano Cortina Olympics. The Hall of Fame rapper revealed plans for the four-day She Got Game weekend event, scheduled from July 16–19, in partnership with MGM Resorts International.

The announcement was made on social media platform X, where Flavor Flav shared details about the celebration and his broader effort to support female athletes. In his post, he said he had created a GoFundMe campaign after receiving numerous questions from fans about how to donate and contribute to the team's celebrations. He expressed hope that the initiative would have a lasting impact beyond the weekend festivities and provide continued support for women representing the United States at the highest level of sport.

Flavor Flav, a founding member of the pioneering hip-hop group Public Enemy, offered the 23-player squad a Las Vegas trip featuring dinners, entertainment shows, and what he described as a real celebration. He also shared what he said was a formal email invitation sent directly to the players, outlining the event's schedule and hospitality arrangements.

The event aims not only to celebrate the team's Olympic success but also to spotlight women's achievements in sports more broadly. Organizers indicated that additional female athletes may be honoured during the weekend, reinforcing the theme of empowerment and recognition.

Reuters sought comment from USA Hockey regarding whether the entire gold medal-winning roster plans to attend the Las Vegas celebration. However, the governing body did not immediately respond to requests for confirmation.The planned festivities underscore a growing movement among celebrities and corporate partners to elevate and invest in women's sports. With the backing of a major hospitality group and the promotional reach of a music icon, the July event is expected to draw significant attention while celebrating one of the most memorable achievements in recent U.S. Olympic history.

U.S. Women's Hockey Team Noncommittal On White House Visit

WASHINGTON

The gold medal-winning U.S. women's hockey team declined to confirm whether it will attend a White House visit after Donald Trump suggested that such a celebration would take place soon.

Trump referenced the women's team's Olympic triumph while honoring the U.S. men's hockey team during Tuesday night's State of the Union address. The men's squad, which defeated Canada in overtime at the Milano Cortina Olympics, received a standing ovation from lawmakers and guests in attendance. Several members of the championship-winning team were present at the address, drawing applause for their achievement.

During the ceremony, Trump also announced that star goaltender Connor Hellebuyck would be awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, one of the nation's highest civilian honors. The recognition underscored the administration's praise for the men's team's dramatic gold medal victory. While the President noted that the women's team would also be invited to the White House, members of the gold medal-winning squad remained noncommittal when asked about a potential visit. Team representatives did not provide a definitive timeline or confirmation, indicating that discussions may still be ongoing.

The U.S. women's hockey program has enjoyed sustained success on the Olympic stage, capturing multiple gold medals and further cementing its legacy in international competition. Their most recent triumph added to a storied history that continues to inspire young athletes across the country.

The issue of a White House visit has gained added attention following recent comments by the President that sparked mixed reactions among players and observers. While some athletes have welcomed the recognition, others have emphasized the importance of focusing on their accomplishments rather than political developments.

For now, the women's team appears intent on celebrating its Olympic success while weighing any future ceremonial engagements. Whether the visit materializes in the near future remains to be seen, but the spotlight remains firmly on both teams' remarkable achievements at the Milano Cortina Games.

Hilary Knight Criticizes Trump Remark After Olympic Wins

MILAN

Hilary Knight, captain of the gold-medal-winning U.S. women's Olympic hockey team, publicly criticized a comment made by Donald Trump following the U.S. men's Olympic hockey team's championship victory.

After the men's team secured gold, Trump invited them to attend the State of the Union address.

During his remarks, he added, I must tell you, we're going to have to bring the women's team, you do know that. He then joked that if he did not also welcome the women's team, I do believe I probably would be impeached.

While some members of the men's team reportedly laughed at the comment, Knight took a different view. Speaking on ESPN on Wednesday, she described the remark as sort of a distasteful joke, adding that it unfortunately distracted from the achievements of women athletes at the Olympics.

I thought it was sort of a distasteful joke, and, unfortunately, that is overshadowing a lot of the success, the success of just women at the Olympics carrying for Team USA and having amazing gold-medal feats, Knight said.

The U.S. women's hockey program has now secured three Olympic gold medals in its history, further cementing its dominance on the international stage.

This year also marked a rare double triumph for Team USA hockey, with both the men's and women's squads capturing gold at the same Games. Knight emphasized that the focus should remain on celebrating that historic accomplishment.

We're just focusing on celebrating the women in our room, the extraordinary efforts, and continue to celebrate three gold medals in program history, as well as the double gold for both men's and women's at the same time, she said. And really not detract from that with a distasteful joke.

Medvedev Sets Up Dubai Final Against Griekspoor

DUBAI

Daniil Medvedev advanced to the final of the Dubai Tennis Championships, defeating top seed Felix Auger-Aliassime 6-4, 6-2 in a commanding 83-minute semi-final performance. The victory keeps Medvedev on course to achieve a milestone that has eluded him throughout his decorated career — winning the same tournament twice.

The former world number one will face unseeded Dutchman Tallon Griekspoor in Saturday's final. A triumph would hand Medvedev his second Dubai crown, adding to his 2023 title at the tournament. Remarkably, despite collecting 22 career titles, each has come at a different event, underlining the rarity of a potential repeat success.

Medvedev arrived in Dubai with questions surrounding his form after early exits in Rotterdam and Doha. However, the third seed has rediscovered his rhythm in emphatic fashion, defeating Shang Juncheng, Stan Wawrinka, Jenson Brooksby and Auger-Aliassime all in straight sets en route to the final.

Against Auger-Aliassime, Medvedev delivered arguably his best display of the week, combining precision serving with relentless baseline pressure. He controlled the rallies from the outset, breaking serve at key moments and never allowing the Canadian to settle into the match.

It has been an amazing four matches, probably playing better and better each match, today being the best performance, Medvedev said after the semi-final.

RISHAB SHETTY SHARES HIS FAVOURITE ACTOR MEMORIES

Actor and director Rishab Shetty recently opened up about his favourite actors and an interesting casting story about his hit film Kantara. Speaking at a press event in Kerala earlier this year, Rishab said his all-time favourite actor is the late Puneeth Rajkumar. He also expressed deep admiration for Malayalam superstar Mohanlal. Rishab said he feels a strong emotional bond with Mohanlal and considers him like a family member. He recalled meeting him at the Kollur Mookambika temple and sharing a photo from that special moment.

Rishab added that his favourite actor in Kannada cinema is Dr. Rajkumar, father of Puneeth Rajkumar. He said watching Mohanlal's films makes him feel proud, as if the actor belongs to his own family.

Rishab also revealed that Puneeth Rajkumar was once considered for the lead role of Shiva in Kantara. At first, Rishab planned to play the role himself. Later, he felt Puneeth would suit the character well, especially in the buffalo race scenes. However, he wanted Puneeth to learn the coastal Karnataka dialect for the role. At that time, Puneeth was busy with many projects, including Dvitva. Though he was excited about Kantara, his tight schedule made it difficult to join the film. Eventually, he advised Rishab to go ahead without waiting for him. Puneeth passed away on October 29 due to cardiac arrest. He was later honoured with the Karnataka Ratna award.

Rubaroo Song Reveals Dacoit's Tender Love Story

The makers of Dacoit have released the first single, Rubaroo, offering a soft and romantic glimpse into the love story of Adivi Sesh and Mrunal Thakur.

Though the film is described as a revenge action drama, the three-minute song focuses on the innocent beginnings of their relationship. The video shows sweet and simple moments shared by the lead pair, from casual meetings to happy times in local markets. Adivi Sesh's character is seen finding reasons to visit Mrunal's home, capturing the warmth of young love.

In the film, Adivi Sesh plays a convict who escapes from jail to seek revenge on his former partner, played by Mrunal Thakur. However, Rubaroo presents a different side of their story. In a dreamy sequence, his character remembers their early days together while sitting in confinement. Mrunal plays a character named Juliet. The Hindi version of the song is sung by Faheem Abdullah and Chinmayi Sripada, while the Telugu version features Bheems Ceciroleo and Chinmayi Sripada. Bheems Ceciroleo has composed the music and written the Telugu lyrics, while the Hindi lyrics are by Ritesh Rajwada. Directed by debutant Shaneil Deo, the film also stars Anurag Kashyap, Prakash Raj and Atul Kulkarni in key roles.

Dacoit will release in theatres on April 10, 2026, in Hindi and Telugu, with a Tamil dubbed version also planned.
